

SELECT 30-ACRE SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL TODAY

Directors of the Bermudian Springs Joint School District early this morning selected the 30-acre Robert Fair property, about 2½ miles south of York Springs and about eight miles north of East Berlin, as the site for the contemplated 650-student high school to be built by the district.

The site, consisting of woods and open lands with no buildings, will cost about $15,000.

Rev. Amos Meyers, supervising principal of the jointure, said the directors, meeting in the York Springs High School, voted on four properties, the Fair property, John Chronister property, the DeHaven property and the Blevins property, all within two or three miles of York.

Most Central Location

Balloting continued until about 1 o'clock this morning when the count showed four of the six boards and a majority of the directors favored the Fair site.

Each of the properties had advantages the others did not, Meyers said, and thus the lengthy series of votes was necessary until finally one of the properties secured the vote of both the majority of all of the directors and two-thirds of the school districts in the jointure. The site chosen is the most central of the four in regard to school population, Rev. Mr. Meyers said.

Forms will be sent to the Adams County School Board asking its approval of the site and to the state board asking its approval. If both county and state boards approve further steps will be taken toward the ultimate construction of the proposed $1,250,000 school building.

Rev. Mr. Meyers said the approval by the state of a 650-student high school for the joint district will "give us a little room to grow." This fall the school system expects to have 500 high school students.

Contract For Furnishings

The jointure board Friday night during the earlier part of its meeting, accepted a bid of $11,500 for furnishings for the York Springs High School.

The furnishing contract went to Kurtz Brothers, Clearfield, as the lowest of six bidders. The furnishings will be for the new addition being constructed to the York Springs school and for classroom and other sections of the present York Springs school which are being remodeled in connection with the new construction. The furnishings will be for ten classrooms, an all-purpose room, offices, etc. Construction of the new addition, which will have six classrooms in it, is moving along well, the board was told, and will be completed about the middle of July.

While the addition to the present York Springs High School will be used for high school purposes next fall, it is planned to turn the present York Springs High School into an elementary school when the new high school is built on the Robert Fair property.

Will Meet With Seminary Heads On "Old Dorm"

Dr. Wilbur E. Tilberg, dean emeritus of Gettysburg College, will represent a committee of representatives from various town groups to confer with the board of trustees of the Gettysburg Seminary with reference to the possibility of preserving the Seminary dormitory for historic reasons. He was named at a meeting of the group in the court house Friday afternoon.

Dr. Tilberg said at the meeting, "In addition to its Civil War significance, the dormitory is the oldest Lutheran building in the United States. The local institution was the first seminary established by the Lutheran church and the old dormitory was the first building erected on the seminary campus. There are no other Lutheran buildings that old anywhere."

Dr. Frederick Tilberg, chairman of the committee which for the past six weeks has been conferring with individuals and groups which the committee believed might be interested, said response shows "much interest" in saving the building. It has not been used by the seminary for several years because of its present condition.

The possibility that the dormitory, if it is preserved, may be used by the Adams County Historical Society or similar groups was discussed at Friday's meeting.

Dr. W. E. Tilberg said preliminary discussions with seminary officials indicated that they would prefer to have the building used, if it can be saved, rather than have it closed. Dr. Frederick Tilberg and others added that the Adams County Historical Society has a large collection of historical items which cannot be displayed because of the small quarters at the court house. In addition the court offices need additional room and may soon need to expand into the historical society section.

A meeting of the historical society will be held April 29 to consider the matter of moving to the seminary dormitory if the seminary board permits and Dr. W. E. Tilberg will present to the board at its May meeting the question of whether it can be used.

Two Directors To Be Named To Library Board

Two positions are to be filled on the board of directors of the Adams County Free Library Association—one by the board and the other by the county commissioners—it was revealed at the April meeting of the board Friday evening at the main library.

William C. Darrah, Gettysburg R. 1, a former board president, has submitted his resignation to the county commissioners. He is one of the three commissioner-appointed members of the board.

John Y. Crow, Gettysburg R. 2, who was a co-chairman of the library's property committee, gave his resignation to the board Friday evening. Mr. Crow has been transferred to Baltimore and will be moving from this community.

Need More Book

President C. P. Keeler said Mr. Crow's position on the property committee will be filled soon. He listed as the chief immediate concern of the property committee the installation of a new heating plant at the library. The present furnace is "worn out," the board was told. The property committee was directed to make necessary improvements to the driveway to the library parking lot.

While bookmobile circulation figures for March dipped below the total for the same month last year, it was pointed out that the snows that closed schools for several days had an effect but the librarian, Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, pointed out: "We need more juvenile books. The supply we have is wearing out and some have to be withdrawn from circulation."

The library's need for more books was pointed out later also by Mrs. Wilson who noted that the library's book collection now stands a 26,901. "By American Library Association standards, we should have over 90,000 volumes, or two for every resident of the county," she said.

Reading Interests Change

Books loans last month totaled 24,399 as compared with 28,809 in March of last year but circulation at the main library increased in the same period. Loans there totaled 5,982, an increase of 500 over March of last year.

Mrs. Wilson said young readers seem to have almost unlimited interest in science and science fiction. Adult reading is swinging away from fiction toward non-fiction, she added.

The new addition will provide space for 25 additional beds on its first floor. The new dietary department will be housed in the basement. There will be a separate boiler plant designed to heat the entire hospital establishment.

Hospital Transfers

The following deeds were filed in the office of the register and recorder this morning:

Miranda K. Miller, Gettysburg R. 5, sold to Miranda K., Merlin J. and Vernon L. Miller, Gettysburg R. 5, 2 acres in Straban Twp. for $1.

Hospital Administrator Walter B. Dillon said this morning that the opening of bids on the new structure has been set tentatively for late this month.

The Ghost Of Isabella M. Lowry

By B. F. M. MacPherson

The notes on Isabella Maria (Wilson) Lowry are continued at this time.

The following obituary appeared in the "Adams Sentinel" of Monday, October 3, 1842:—

"O death! ere thou strike another, Kind and mild and good as she, Time will hurl a dart at thee.

"Departed this life, in the animating prospect of a better, on October 2nd, 1842, in the 32nd year of her age, Mrs. Isabella Maria Wilson, wife of George Lowry, Esq., of Georgetown, D. C., and daughter of the Hon. James Wilson, late member of Congress from Adams County, Pennsylvania. Seldom has the grave secured a lover's trophy. To a person of more than ordinary attractions was united a heart of the most delicate texture. She was eminently characterized by that gentleness of spirit which constitutes the abiding charm of her sex. Her mild and amiable virtues greatly endeared her to a large circle of relatives and friends, and made her an object of affectionate interest wherever she went. Cherishing feelings of unmingled kindness for every member of the human family, it is believed she has not left a single enemy to cast a thorn upon her grave.

"None knew her but to love; None named her but to praise.

"Meet Again In Heaven"

"The various duties which devolved upon her were performed with exemplary fidelity. To the dispensation of Providence she bowed with uncomplaining acquiescence.

"When the hand of affliction was placed upon her fragile form, she yielded to the pressure without a murmur. Throughout her final illness she exhibited the same equanimity of temper by which she was distinguished during the bright and sunny period of health and prosperity. She met the last messenger with composure and serenely resigned herself to his chilling embrace, having exhorted those who were dearest to her upon earth 'meet her again in heaven.' Her precious relics repose in the tomb, but her enfranchised spirit, we doubt not, is shining with mild and steady lustre in the domain of the Redeemer. Death has smitten this lovely flower and caused it to fade and disappear, but the recollection of its charms will be fondly cherished when 'the Amaranth itself shall droop and wither.'

"For years but yield us proofs of death's ambition

"To cull his victims from the choicest fold.

"And sheath his shafts in all the pride of life."

"Why Such Emphasis?"

"It might well be said, after reading this fulsome obituary, that both the Wilson and Lowry families were 'protecting a bit too much.' Why so much emphasis on Isabella Maria Lowry's earthly peace and happiness? Is it that some of her relatives and friends, who knew the complete story of her marriage, needed to be reassured? Did all concerned wish to present the retelling of an old story — one that reflected little credit on the Honorable James Wilson and George Lowry, Esquire? Probably the answer to this question will never be known.

About six months after the death of Isabella Maria (Wilson) Lowry a neighbor, who had known the unfortunate woman from her childhood, saw her go at early twilight, out the back door of her father's house, walk across the garden and orchard and disappear into the grove trees, located about half a mile from the house. Here she had met, before her marriage, the young physician, whom she loved. Needless to say the neighbor tried to convince herself that what she had seen was a figment of her imagination. Unfortunately for her peace of mind she saw the same thing again several weeks later and this time, beyond the shadow of a doubt, she knew precisely what and whom she had seen. Isabella Maria Lowry had returned to find her lost happiness.

DON WHITT IS TOP GOLFER IN $15,000 MATCH

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Don Whitt, a golf professional for almost 10 of his 27 years, says he plays his best in the summer.

He took the official opening of the PGA summer tour to back up his contention by taking a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Open tournament.

Whitt, a soft-spoken Alameda, Calif., pro touring with his wife and their two children, bettered par by four shots with a 34-3-367 first round effort yesterday.

He dropped five putts of 10 to 20 feet in gaining the lead by a single shot over five rivals. Five more were two strokes behind at 68 and 11 others trailed by three with 70s.

12 Shoot Par

Twelve others equalled the Star-mountain Forest Country Club course's 35-36-71 par figures.

Whitt has had two big moments in his nearly three years of steady tournament golf. Last year he lost to Dow Finsterwald in the semi-finals of the PGA championship. A few months earlier he had lost a playoff to Finsterwald after they tied in the Tucson Open.

Don says it probably is chiefly mental, but he believes he plays better golf in the summer. Figures back up his contention. He won only $1,630 on the 1957 winter tour, $1,500 in the losing playoff with Finsterwald. But he finished the year with $8,700 in winnings.

This year his best finish was a tie for 15th and he netted about $2,000 in three money finishes in 11 major tournaments.

5 Scored 68

He needed his hot putter yesterday as Jerry Magee of Toronto, a pro only nine months; Al Balding of Markham, Ontario; Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La.; veteran Tommy Boll of Chattanooga, and Gene Bond of Detroit, all burned up the easier back nine to finish with 68s. Pott bagged an eagle three on the 18th for an incoming 32, four under par. The five other top men finished with 33s.

Sharing seventh place at 69, two strokes behind Whitt, were Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia; John McMullin of Air Oaks, Calif.; Bob Keller of Eglin Field, Fla.; Chuck Alexander of nearby High Point, and Tony Lema of Napa, Calif.

AP POLL PICKS BRAVES, YANKS

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's sports writers and sportscasters today decided that the 1958 World Series will be between the Milwaukee Braves and the New York Yankees.

Of the 157 votes received in the annual Associated Press poll, 133 writers and broadcasters thought Milwaukee would win the National League pennant and 128 thought the Yanks would repeat in the American League.

BIG RACES FOR 3-YEAR-OLDS AT THREE TRACKS

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

Important races for 3-year-olds horses headlined the programs at Jamaica, Laurel and Gulfstream Park today and if they're not properly dress rehearsals for the Kentucky Derby, the scent of roses will still be present.

The most important is the $25,000 added Experimental Free Handicap at Jamaica, where 10 were entered for the mile and one sixteenth gallop. A. J. Ostricker's Nisht Amool is the 117 pound top-weight in the Experimental and the Elkman Stable's Hubcap may be dangerous with only 110. Hubcap won the Swift Stakes at the Long Island course March 29, while Nisht Amool finished third in that six furlongs affair.

At Gulfstream, the big question mark is whether Lincoln Road can boost his Kentucky Derby stock in the $15,000 Biscayne Bay Handicap, also at a mile and one sixteenth. Eleven were entered, four of them eligible for the big one at Louisville.

Deack Duncan, whose owner, John S. Kelly, never nominated the colt for the Kentucky classic, rules the probable choice in the $10,000 Chesaapeake Trial at Laurel Park. The six furlongs dash drew 10 entries in addition to Deack Duncan, three of them eligible for Kentucky.

The three races will clarify the 3-year-old situation somewhat, as well as point up possible starters in the other major stakes leading up to the $125,000 Derby at Louisville May 3. Next week at Jamaica the 3-year-olds in the New York area get their final chance in the Wood Memorial. Down in Maryland they'll go after the Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel, while some others may head for Lexington, Ky., to try and earn a Derby berth in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland April 24.

Ten fillies and mares were entered for the $25,000 Golden Penny Handicap at Golden Gate Fields. The $10,000 Pawtucket Handicap, a mile and 70 yards at Lincoln Downs, drew eight. Rock-Croose was assigned 121 pounds on the 18th for an incoming 32, four under par. The five other top men finished with 33s.

Sharing seventh place at 69, two strokes behind Whitt, were Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia; John McMullin of Air Oaks, Calif.; Bob Keller of Eglin Field, Fla.; Chuck Alexander of nearby High Point, and Tony Lema of Napa, Calif.

BUILDING AND FARM

Here's the Answer

By ANDREW C. LANG

The Associated Press
Question: I expect to put down flagstones at the rear of our house in the near future. Can you tell me how to cut a flagstone so that it splits exactly where you want it?

Answer: To cut a flagstone evenly, first score a guide line on the stone with a cold chisel. The line should run across one side, down the edges and over onto the other side. Next, still using the cold chisel, but this time tapping it lightly with a hammer, deepen the scored line gradually. Once the cut is about one-quarter of an inch deep, the force of the blows can be increased gradually until the stone cracks, after which it can be tapped apart with light hammer blows. The two most important parts of this procedure are: (1) in deepening the cut, work from the center of the flat part of the stone toward the edges. And (2) work gradually, since trying to split the stone in a couple of resounding smacks is what causes it to split unevenly.

Question: A piece of the veneer near one of the edges of our dining room table has become loosened. Can it be glued together again with ordinary glue?

Answer: Veneer should be glued together with a water-resistant, non-staining glue. To do the job properly, gently lift the loosened veneer and scrape out as much of the old glue as possible, using a sharp knife or any tool with a blade edge. Spread a thin coat of the new glue under the veneer, pushing it as far back as possible—but before careful not to part any more of the veneer from the solid part of the table. Let the glue stand for a few minutes, then press the veneer down and hold it there with clamps or heavy weights. If you use clamps, be sure to place cardboard or some other soft material between the jaws of the clamp and the furniture.

Question: The porcelain on our bathtub has become chipped. Can it be fixed or should I merely paint it white?

Answer: There was a time when cracked porcelain could not be patched properly by an amateur, but it now can be done with one of the new porcelain glazes. Be sure the area to be fixed is free of grease and dirt and is completely dry. Apply a thin coat of the glaze, wait 30 minutes and apply another thin coat. Keep applying these thin coats until the damaged spot is built up so that it is level with the surrounding surface. Keep some denatured alcohol on hand for wiping off any surplus glaze. And remember: you won't get good results if you try to make the patch with a single thick coat of the glaze.

The Dover: Pleasing Exterior And Interior Comfort

Rooms Seven
Bedrooms Three Closets Six
Cubage 27,000 ft.
Dimensions 57' x 26'

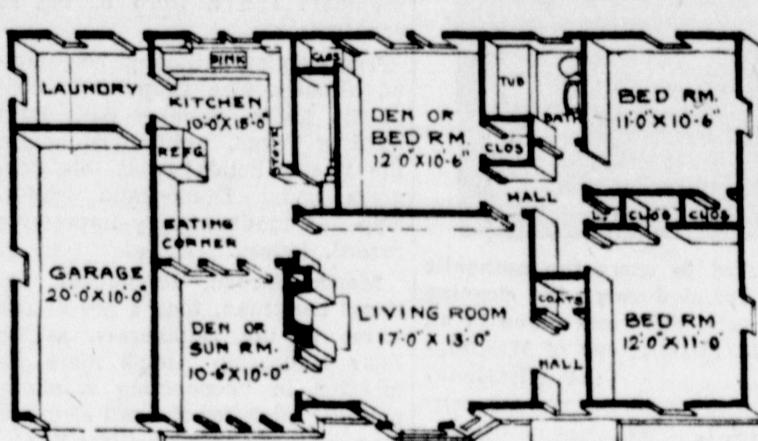

Shingles, clapboards or a combination wood and masonry exterior would be equally suitable and attractive for the exterior of "The Dover." Measuring 57' x 26' in overall dimensions, the house has a cubage of 27,000 feet and would require at least an 80-foot lot. For the most attractive setting, do not have the house built too close to the street and be sure to keep the landscaping simple.

Old-fashioned lanterns at either side of the front door, wrought iron railings on the front stoop and the larger but equally old-fashioned post lantern just at the left of the front walk are simple and effective exterior decorative touches suggested in the illustration.

Glass panels at the top of the front door help to light the good-sized entry hall. There is a large clothes closet at the further end of the hall; it's always a good plan to have a closet in an entry hall for it provides storage space for stormy weather gear for the members of the family as well as a place in which to hang visitors' clothing.

Careful Planning

Through an open archway in the left wall of this hallway you reach the living room. Measuring 17' x 13' in dimensions, the living room is very well planned. Although the living room actually is the connecting link between the other rooms in "The Dover," and has four doors, it is not necessary to walk directly through the room to get from one part of the house to another, for the doorways are very carefully placed.

The three-windowed bay in the front living room wall helps to guarantee an abundance of light and ventilation for the room. It also is the central point of decorative interest. When planning your furniture arrangement and decorative scheme be sure to take into consideration the fireplace in the left wall.

In the left wall of the living room, also, the first door leads to the 10'6" x 10' den or sun room. The bank of windows in the front wall of this room makes it particularly suitable as a sun room. However, if a den would prove more practical for your family it can serve this purpose with equal ease.

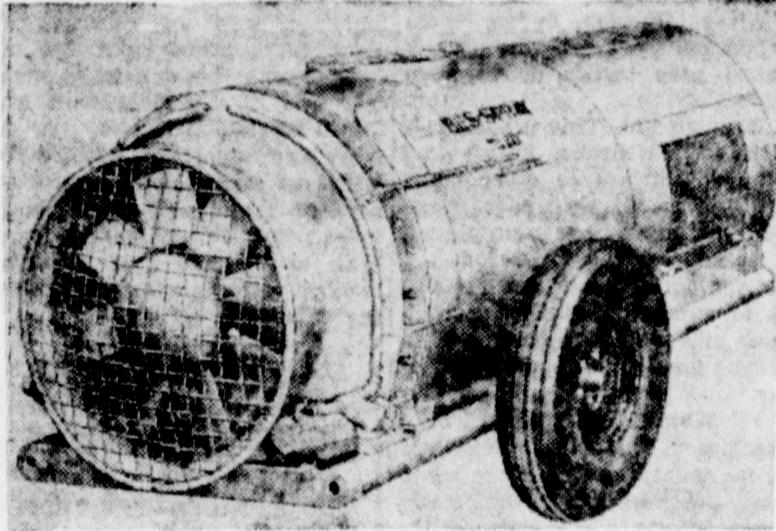

If you want a separate dining room instead of placing your dining room set in the living room, you could convert the den or sun room into a dining room. Actually the eating corner, the front section of the kitchen separated from the den by a partition containing two windows, can easily be used for all meals.

Every inch in the kitchen is put to good use with the back and right walls lined with working counters, cupboards and cabinets. Under the double windows in the back wall of the room is the ideal location for the sink. The stove is placed at the right end of the line of working counters, while the refrigerator is just a few steps away against the left wall of the 10' x 15' kitchen.

First Floor Laundry
Well lighted and ventilated by two windows on adjoining walls, the laundry is directly connected with the kitchen. A door in the back wall of the laundry leads directly to the back yard; helps to simplify the job of carrying out the weekly wash to hang up on the line. Another door, in the front wall of the room, opens in the 20' x 10' garage.

The two regular bedrooms are located in the right wing of the house; the den or bedroom is placed in back of the living room. These rooms and the bath are connected by a central hallway.

Two windows and two closets assure good light, ventilation and plenty of storage area regardless of the use to which the den or bedroom is put. Measuring 12' x 10'6", this room has a long expanse of unbroken area along the right wall which would be ideal for the installation of bunk beds.

An all modern bath equipped with both a tub and a shower and well lighted and ventilated by one window in the back wall, is located between the den or bedroom and the back bedroom.

One window in the right wall and another in the back wall of the room provide good cross-ventilation and light for the 11' x 10'6" bedroom. The large closet in the front wall provides good storage facilities for the occupant of this room.

The large linen closet opens on the connecting hallway between these two bedrooms.

Largest of the bedrooms, the 12' x 11' room is designed to serve as the master bedroom. This room also boasts good cross-ventilation and has a large clothes closet.

USING A HAMMER

DO . . . know that the size of a hammer is determined by the weight of the head, which ranges from 4 ounces up to 28 ounces, a 16-ounce hammer generally recommended for ordinary household use.

DO . . . remember that, while a straight-faced hammer is easier to use for the novice, the bell-faced hammer is preferred by the professional because it enables him to drive a nail flush to the surface without damaging the wood.

DO . . . grip a hammer firmly near the end of the handle, holding the nail at the desired spot with the other hand and tapping lightly a few times until it has taken hold.

DO . . . bring the arm into play only when it is necessary to hit the nail harder, but keep the strokes under control.

CRUSHED STONE

Suggests U.S. Needs Crash Plan To Fathom Fellow Men

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Maybe what this country needs is not more scientists but a crash program to understand our fellow man, a University of Wisconsin professor suggested today.

Dr. D. A. Worcester said it is illuminating but not very inspiring to note how much the nation spends on understanding guided missiles, and how little it spends on understanding the persons who guide them.

In an address prepared for the International Council for Exceptional Children, Dr. Worcester said: "The hue and cry right now is for more scientists. . . . We are proposing new institutions and unlimited budgets to develop means of destroying our enemies. It is conceivable that a similar expenditure in support of talented minds devoted to the understanding of the peoples of the world might render unnecessary the instruments of annihilation."

"It might even make our present enemies our friends."

The social studies — history, geography, economics, etc. — are hard studies, Dr. Worcester said. Every effort should be made to spot the gifted students in those fields.

PRISONERS TO MAKE STREET MARKERS AGAIN

HARRISBURG (AP) — Inmates of Western State Penitentiary at Pittsburgh are going back into the roadsign manufacturing business July 1 for the first time in about 10 years.

And the Bureau of Corrections, which supervises state penal institutions, said the production of street marker signs for sale to municipalities will begin for the first time in the same penitentiary on that date.

John Smith, superintendent of production at state penal institutions, said the way was cleared for the sign production recently when the State Revenue Department adopted a five-year license tag for trucks and passenger cars.

Under the new license system, which became effective for passenger cars at the end of last month, the large plate will be usable for five years with the addition each year of a small metal or plastic tag on its face.

Faster Production

"We found that under the old system, it took us a full year to produce the plates needed for the Revenue Department," said Smith.

"However, under the new small-tag system, we feel we can produce enough small metal tags for the entire license issue in about four months."

"So, rather than have the machinery lay idle and have the men assigned to the metal shop with no work, we have decided to go into the road marker and sign making business."

At one time, he said, the prison industries made road signs for the Highways Department and until the early 1940s, prisoners produced road signs for sale to local communities on a competitive bid-

GM To Close Nine PLANTS 1 WEEK

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors says it will close nine of its Chevrolet Division manufacturing plants Monday for one week and will close nine assembly plants for a similar period the following week.

The company said yesterday the shutdowns were part of an effort to readjust production to new car inventories.

GM said it did not know how many workers would be affected.

Manufacturing plants scheduled to close Monday are at Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio, Buffalo and Tonawanda, N.Y., Bay City and Livonia, Mich., and three at Flint, Mich.

Production will be normal at Chevrolet plants in Muncie, Ind., Indianapolis, and at three plants in Saginaw and Flint, the company said.

Assembly plants closing the week of April 21 are at Janesville, Wis., Van Nuys and Oakland, Calif., Kansas City, St. Louis, Tarrytown, N.Y., Atlanta, Ga., Baltimore and Flint.
